Excerpt for Infosys

No longer just the enforcer of cost, control, and compliance, finance is now expected to work hand-in-glove with the business to strategically help it navigate market uncertainties and opportunities. F&A service providers must look at Horizon 2 and 3 expectations for CFOs and revisit their portfolios. The keys to the kingdom lie in the data; the service providers that can design smarter, data-driven finance operations and help finance deliver on strategic growth initiatives will win.

Reetika Fleming, Executive Research Leader

Horizon 3 providers differentiate themselves by their F&A competencies and investment in an ecosystem-wide ability to anticipate, focus, and ultimately convince discerning F&A leaders to buy from them.

Introduction and the HFS F&A value chain

Introduction

Amidst continuing economic headwinds and digital innovation, the finance and accounting (F&A) landscape is rapidly evolving from a mere back-office office function to a strategic one. The overall finance function is emerging as one of the key value drivers in achieving strategic goals. This HFS Horizons: F&A Service Providers, 2023 report is a snapshot of the leading F&A service providers acting as key catalysts for CFOs to drive enterprise-wide transformation.

The HFS Horizons: F&A Service Providers, 2023 report assesses the innovation and value potential of service providers' capabilities across three distinct Horizons:

- Horizon 1: The ability to drive functional transformation by driving cost reduction, speed, and efficiency, plus the ability to measure business outcomes at the functional level.
- Horizon 2: Horizon 1 plus the ability to drive a OneOffice Mindset with real enterprise-level business outcomes and measure business outcomes at the enterprise level.
- Horizon 3: Horizon 2 plus the ability to drive a OneEcosystem Approach, finding completely new sources of value and measuring business outcomes at the ecosystem level.

This research effort assesses how well service providers help their clients deliver F&A services to drive process transformation. The study evaluates the capabilities of service providers across the HFS F&A services value chain based on a range of dimensions to understand the Why, What, How, and So What of their services offerings.

We invited diversified providers of F&A services with established business lines focused on supporting the needs of CFOs through an existing portfolio of services that span our F&A services value chain to participate in this study.

This study evaluates 15 providers' capabilities across a defined series of value propositions, execution and innovation, go-to-market strategy, the voice of the customer, and alignment with the HFS F&A value chain and HFS Horizons criteria.

This report also includes detailed profiles of each service provider, outlining their provider facts, strengths, and development opportunities.

HFS Horizons—aligning enterprise objectives with service provider value

DIFFERENTIATION REALIZED is Horizon 3

Horizon 3 service providers demonstrate

- Horizon 2 + the ability to drive a OneEcosystem approach, finding completely new sources of value and measuring business outcomes at the ecosystem level
- Capability to deliver ecosystem transformation and controllership across all the four key pillars of F&A (order to cash, record to report, procure to pay, and financial planning and analysis) along with moving to a more strategic finance space
- Well-rounded capabilities across all value creation levers: talent, domain, technology, and change
- Positive impact on clients' technical and adaptive process areas
- Driving co-creation with clients and ecosystem partners
- Referenceable and satisfied clients driving new business models based on the partnership

MULTIPLE BUSINESS OUTCOMES is Horizon 2

Horizon 2 service providers demonstrate:

- Horizon 1 + the ability to drive a OneOffice mindset with real enterprise-level business outcomes and measure business outcomes at the enterprise level
- Capability to deliver enterprise transformation as an ongoing multi-year managed service and controllership across all the four key pillars of F&A
- Ability to support clients in driving customer and employee experience
- Global F&A capabilities with strong consulting skills
- Proven and leading-edge proprietary tools, assets, and frameworks
- Referenceable and satisfied clients for the ability to innovate

EFFICIENCY AND EFFECTIVENESS RESULTS is Horizon 1

Horizon 1 service providers demonstrate:

- Ability to drive functional transformation by driving cost reduction, speed, and efficiency and measure business outcomes at the functional level
- Demonstrate solid fundamentals of the transformational value of F&A on at least one of the four core pillars of F&A
- Global delivery capabilities and client footprint
- Referenceable and satisfied clients for ability to execute

Sources of data

This Horizons research report relies on myriad data sources to support our methodology and help HFS obtain a well-rounded perspective on service capabilities of the participating organizations covered in our study. Sources are as follows:

Briefings and information gathering

HFS conducted detailed briefings with F&A leadership from each vendor.

Each participant submitted a specific set of supporting information aligned to the assessment methodology.

Reference checks

We conducted reference checks with 38 active clients and 45 active partners of the study participants via survey-based and telephonic interviews.

Other data sources

Public information such as press releases and websites.

Ongoing interactions, briefings, virtual events, etc., with in-scope vendors and their clients and partners.

Horizons assessment methodology (1/2)

The HFS Horizons: F&A services, 2023 research evaluates the capabilities of providers across a range of dimensions to understand the Why, What, How, and So What of their F&A services offering. Executive summary and market dynamics

Executive summary

- 1 Data leading as key value-add

Data is the thread linking F&A with other functions within organizations. It is the most important weapon enabling enterprises and CFOs to make informed decisions to become data-driven and future-ready. However, most firms don't have the internal capabilities to manage such vast amounts of data, and this is where we see the expectations for service providers growing. The aim is to use data to quickly access real-time insights, aiding strategic decision-making and transformation initiatives. Service providers like Accenture, EXL, and Infosys are showing the way.
- 2 Partnership ecosystem and collaboration

CFOs are quickly realizing the fastest way to growth and profitability is no longer via self-reliance; rather, they must focus on plugging gaps with meaningful partnerships to drive higher customer experience (CX), employee experience (EX), and partner experience (PX). F&A service providers are welcoming new partnerships to amplify existing capabilities along these lines. Some, like IBM and TCS, have mature partner strategies. Others, including Datamatics, Conduent, and Cognizant, have begun making good partnership contracts but still have some ground to cover.
- 3 Outcomes delivered

Cost improvements, efficiency gains, and access to industry expertise and capabilities are among the topmost F&A priorities for clients. Most service providers are covering more Horizon 1 outcomes, and a few are beginning to build in Horizon 2 outcomes. However, Horizon 3 outcomes are still limited to a few specific areas of F&A. The industry is still on a journey to move beyond cost savings in delivering key engagement outcomes.
- 4 The promise of generative AI

The F&A function can benefit from using GenAI to deliver quicker data analysis and insights and to attend to more strategic functions like risk management, fraud detection, forecasting, and overall planning. We've seen major service providers jump on the GenAI bus, but few have realized benefits at scale. The next few months will show us how F&A will begin benefitting from using GenAI in strategizing and financial planning, transcending Horizon 1 transactional tasks like helpdesk support.
- 5 ESG is an emerging priority

ESG is one of enterprises' top three goals due to a growing urgency around climate change and transition. However, ESG organizations face challenges with unclear ownership and lack of clarity on actionable measures. Accountability for ESG external disclosures is moving into the CFO's domain, but the potential is far higher as finance can strategically guide the business on profitable, sustainable business initiatives. Most enterprises are still formulating their ESG strategies, creating an opportunity for F&A service providers to partner, though only a few have developed capabilities in this space.

Data and analytics is a key area where F&A clients seek help from partners

Infosys profile: F&A service providers, 2023

Infosys: Moving up the value chain with FP&A investments and serving broader CFO needs

Strengths	Development opportunities
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Value proposition: Infosys understands CFOs' challenges and places its solutions as a one-stop-shop for the CFO, addressing finance-related barriers within enterprises. • Growth proof points: A new center of AI and automation in Poland brings digital excellence to enterprises globally, and several large F&A deal wins in the last two years are more proof of growth. • Key differentiators: Infosys' focus on data and real-time insights along with the advanced financial services suite is enabling transformation for multiple enterprises. Also, its focus on taking its own learnings on ESG strategy to its clients is compelling. • Outcomes: Infosys has enabled a German multinational company manufacturing shoes and clothes to create a completely aligned GBS structure with enterprise-wide governance implemented for IT. • Customer kudos: Clients laud Infosys for its deep domain expertise, talent training and retention, and transformative mindset. • Partner kudos: One partner appreciates the OneInfosys narrative in client deals. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • What we'd like to see more of: More joint partner collaboration and co-creation with customers to bring forth new value. • Room for growth: Missing the larger Infosys mothership of capabilities. Infosys BPM has the opportunity to be more integrated with the larger SI organization to put forward a broader set of solutions to its clients, where a few of its competitors are making progress. • Partner critiques: Partners would like to see Infosys driving the co-creation of innovative customer solutions.
